Ministry Bio

Prophetess Kenya Johnson is a prayerful teacher, prophetic voice, and identity-centered minister who carries a strong mantle for intercession, encouragement, and spiritual alignment. She comes from a rich lineage of praying and prophetic women, including her grandmothers, Rosalie Hogan and Maria Vasser, and her mother, Prophetess Joyce Hogan.

From an early age, Kenya experienced a deep sensitivity to the presence of God through prayer, spiritual encounters, dreams, and revelation. Over time, these encounters matured into a ministry marked by discernment, clarity, and a heart to see lives aligned with God's truth and purpose. Her prophetic ministry is known for accuracy, insight, and a restorative tone that draws people back to God rather than pushing them into performance.

On January 6, 2013, Kenya was ordained as a prophetess by Apostle Kenneth D. Hogan at Living Bread Ministries during a sovereign move of the Holy Spirit. Since that time, she has faithfully served the Body of Christ through prayer, teaching, and prophetic encouragement, with a particular focus on women navigating seasons of growth, healing, and transition.

In addition to her ministry calling, Kenya is a certified life coach and the founder of The Total Makeover Company, LLC, where she supports women in becoming rooted in truth, restored in heart, and released from limiting patterns through faith-based coaching and teaching. She is also an author with a passion for writing and has written on topics related to identity, relationships, and spiritual growth.

Kenya is the eldest child and only daughter of Apostle Kenneth and Prophetess Joyce Hogan. She has been married to her husband, Elder Brian Johnson, for over twenty-eight years, and they are the proud parents of three children.
